RECOMMENDED METHOD OF PRONOUNCING

ISLAMIC DIVORCE

Talaq in Shariah denotes the legal method whereby a marriage (Nikah) is brought to an end. In Islam, it is to be exercised only under exceptional circumstances. The Holy Prophet (Peace be upon Him) is reported to have said:

*Of all things which have been permitted,
Divorce is the most hated by Allah. (Abu Daud)*

The method sanctioned and approved by Shariah, for a divorce is:

- A. The husband in the first place must pronounce only one Talaq.
- B. The Talaq is to be pronounced when the wife is in the state of purity (Tuhur), i.e. she is not menstruating.
- C. The Talaq should not be pronounced when the wife is pregnant.
- D. It is highly recommended that before the pronouncement of Talaq, the husband should consult a Muslim scholar.

In this way, the husband can exercise the right of Raja' (return) on the divorced wife within the prescribed period of Iddah. However, he will lose this power at the expiration of the term, and the complete cessation of the marital rights and duties will take place. A fresh marriage will be necessary for the parties to re-unite.

If any part of the Mahr, agreed at the time of Nikah, is outstanding, the husband should pay it at the time of divorce.

The husband is expected to bear the maintenance expenses (i.e. food, clothing, accommodation, medical expenses etc.) of his wife for the period of Iddah.
